Legion Branches Urge Protective Measures

Would Prohibit Use of Foreign Languages and Confiscate All Firearms in Possession of Aliens.

A joint meeting of the executives of the Canadian Legion branches of Bellevue, Blairmore and Coleman was held on Sunday, under the chairmanship of J.W. Gresham, with W.S. Purvis as secretary.

The meeting was called to see how best the Crows Nest Pass branches could assist the government in furthering Canada's war effort and help in maintaining law and order within the district. The chairman stated that in view of the heavy investment in vital industries within the Crows Nest area that some local control be organized, to work with the government to effectively control subversive elements, so that sabotage would be prevented.

Clause 2 of the resolution passed endorsed a plan similar to that enforced by Great Britain, conscripting all forms of wealth and man power.

Clause 3 endorsed a policy of non-issuance of naturalization papers to all aliens for the duration of the war.

The government is asked to prohibit the use of all but the English language in public and other gathering places in areas where English is the legally accepted language. In the use of foreign languages in mines and other industries, the committee urges that managements prohibit their use, as an aid to the more effective control of enemy influence and propaganda.

It was resolved that each branch of the Legion prepare a roll of ex-servicemen who are willing to volunteer their services in the maintenance of law and order and that the lists be submitted to the headquarters of Military District 13.

The concluding clause proposes that the government should immediately confiscate all arms and ammunition in the possession of aliens.

Gall or Ignorance?

Some person during the past week had the audacity to dump horse and cow manure, with a liberal mixture of sawdust, on the coal refuse at the ball field. Investigation is being made by the local police to discover who the guilty person is. Town employees had to be sent to move and bury the stuff.

Upon discovery of the manure, company officials refused to dump more coal refuse as they feared fire would start due to the heat from the decaying manure.

The secretary of the hospital board is George Ford, and the president is William H. Hayson. The board is composed of representatives of each of the local mines, who are elected annually.

Ottawa—Full co-operation of leaders from every walk of life in Canada will be at the disposal of the government in promoting the sale of war saving certificates and war saving stamps which went on sale in every city, town and hamlet across the country last Monday.

Walter H. Somerville and M. de Gasse Beaubien, joint chairmen of the National War Savings Committee, will be aided by a national advisory panel which will include labour leaders, the heads of important women's organizations, representatives of the civil service, Agriculture, the press, and key men from chain stores, banks, security dealers, trust and loan companies, the post office, insurance companies, and other business institutions which have undertaken to sell war savings certificates and war savings stamps.

Ball Game Last Night Ended in Disorder

Blairmore Failed to Hold 12 Run Lead; Pucksters Fight Upphill Battle to Win 15-14.

Regardless of whether Blairmore wins or loses the protest which they have entered with league officials on Wednesday night's game, they really deserve to lose the points. A team which takes a twelve run lead and then loses it deserves to lose the game.

In the second inning the visitors hit everything Schnepf and Seaman could throw and as a result thirteen runs crossed the plate before Johnny Elick halted the slaughter.

Pucksters, who had managed to score once in the first inning, went to work and scored four more in the second and six more in the third to sharply cut the Blairmore lead and give encouragement of better things to come. Kanik and Pete Brown hit home runs for their respective teams, Kanik doing his good deed with two mates aboard.

Blairmore scored once in the fourth but Coleman came right back in the fifth with two runs to narrow Blairmore's lead to one run.

Old Man Darkness began to make his presence felt and Blairmore, still ahead, and worrying themselves sick over the strain on the Coleman boys' eyesight, asked on two occasions to call the game. Referee Torchy Grant of Hillcrest said no. In the eighth the fireworks started when Seaman hit a mighty home run scoring Joyce ahead of him to put Coleman out in front.

Suddenly Referee Grant pulled a "King Leopold" and called the game. Immediately Blairmore protested the decision, tempers flared and measures had to be taken to prevent fist-fights.

Grant stated he had told Gentile, manager of Pucksters, his decision to call the game at the end of the eighth. He had failed to tell manager Tony Vepjra and thereby left himself open for a scathing attack. When last heard from Manager Vepjra was going to lodge a protest with league officials.

Grit: Too often it will be found that this thing we call "hard luck" is merely a mixture of laziness and poor judgment.

A Ponderous Tome

A ponderous tome, comprising nearly a thousand pages, to say nothing of innumerable appendices and reams of statistics, the report of the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations provides plenty of food for thought and a lot of material for discussion, and it is a reasonable conclusion that it will occasion a great deal of talk before its recommendations are implemented.

It is safe to say that no more important document has been presented to the nation since Confederation and it requires little reflection to state that it is high time that some of the changes recommended by Mr. Sirois and his colleagues were put into effect. A lot of water has flowed under the bridge in this rapidly growing country since the date when the provinces were welded into a great geographical entity—Canada—by the fathers of Confederation in 1867.

Though the fathers of Confederation can be credited with a great deal of wisdom and some foresight when they allocated to the Dominion and its provinces their several spheres of jurisdiction, even they could not have been expected to predict the immense growth, the great changes, the enormous diversity and scope of problems which would come about in less than three quarters of a century. The truth of the matter is that the country has outgrown the rules and regulations laid down for its guidance and the conduct of its affairs, though those rules and regulations were admirably suited to its needs at the time they were formulated.

As a result of these great and in many cases unpredictable changes, and of the changed conditions under which the national, provincial and municipal governments have to operate to-day, the clothes which clad the lusty infant in 1867 are likely to choke the full grown adult of to-day. Hence new clothes must be cut and fashioned to suit the requirements of the present.

Favorable Reception

While it is yet too early to pronounce any conclusive opinion on the recommendations of the Sirois Commission as a whole, its general tenor appeared when first released to meet with a favorable reception in the west by those who might be expected to be competent to give an opinion on such weighty subjects and based solely on newspaper summaries of the contents of the document.

Certainly there can be no two opinions on the recommendation that the Federal government assume full responsibility for unemployment relief, though municipal men are inclined to question the decision that the responsibility should be confined to the employables, on the ground that the unemployed jobs have multiplied enormously during the depression decade. It can be safely assumed that strong pressure will be exerted to secure a greater measure of federal aid, if not full responsibility, for the unemployed on relief.

On the first appearance of the summary of the report municipal men were also inclined to look askance at the absence of any definite recommendations for relief from municipal indebtedness. It may be presumed, however, that the Commission took the view that this was not a matter for a body dealing with Dominion-provincial relations, since the municipalities are creatures of the respective provinces which set them up and that this is a matter which the provinces should deal with themselves. No doubt, also, it was felt that the financial relations between the municipalities and the provinces are so variable in different parts of the country that the Commission should not delve into this subject beyond making a recommendation that the provinces assume a greater measure of control over municipal finances.

A Secondary Consideration

While, as already stated, it is high time that the country receive such a report as that submitted by the Sirois body and make some changes in the constitution in the direction of better adaptation of government to the present day requirements of the country and its constituent parts, it is unfortunate that it comes at a time when the nation is bending all its energies to the prosecution of a war, which is evidently to be waged to a finish.

The term "unfortunate" is used, because, while such important measures as those recommended by the Royal Commission are not to be treated lightly; in fact, deserve and should have the most serious and thoughtful consideration before action upon them is taken, if time is taken by the national government and those of the provinces to such questions at the present time it might detract somewhat from the country's war effort. On the other hand, the financial relationships between the Dominion and the provinces are too important to be dealt with hastily and without a full quota of discussion.

In view of the fact that this country is now engaged in a struggle for its very existence, it may be necessary to defer action on the report until such time as more attention can be given such problems without running any risk of interfering with a matter of even greater importance.

Appeal For Funds

Air Pilots

Fighting Airmen Said To Usually Have Blue Eyes

Good fighter pilots in the air usually have blue eyes.

This is not a matter of mere coincidence. Scientific tests carried out with the object of finding the ideal fighter-pilots have proved it.

All pilots must be of good sound stock and must pass a strict medical examination. This includes tests to find whether the applicant can withstand the strain of flying in all climates and all altitudes.

Eyesight must be first class with correct color vision and muscular balance.

The ears, nose and throat examination also is severe. Good hearing is essential, variations in the sound of the engine may be important, and a pilot must be able to hear messages coming through his earphones under any conditions of noise.

But it is the man's general characteristics which are the real pointers. Good fighter pilots vary a great deal in appearance—in height—in chest measurement and in purely physical characteristics—but they all have something in common. This is a quality which indicates good mental and physical stamina.

As to whether the color of the candidate's eyes is any real guide, medical authorities are doubtful, but while brown or gray eyes go with a sympathetic temperament, the steely blue denotes the independent, combative nature of the ideal fighter pilot.

Experiments To Determine Whether Hot Water Freezes Faster Than Cold

Does hot water freeze faster than cold water? This has been a subject of much controversy among laymen. Now the scientists have entered the discussion, with conflicting findings. To the physicist there is just one answer, if the experiment is performed under ideal conditions—cold water will freeze faster than hot. But in practical experiments it is not always possible to attain ideal conditions, and consequently inconsistencies, real or apparent, develop.

It was pointed out in the discussion that hot water evaporated faster than cold and that if the experiments were started with equal amounts of water the hotter one would soon become much smaller, and that this would aid in freezing quicker. This also would make the experiment unscientific because the starting conditions were not continued unaltered.

Two series of experiments were made by Dr. G. Wakeham, of the University of Colorado. He made eight tests. In four of them, 250 cubic centimeters of water at various temperatures were placed in metal cylinders, and in the four others equal amounts of water were placed at the same temperatures in pie tins. The time in which it took each sample to freeze in outdoor temperatures of slightly above zero was recorded.

Water boils at a temperature of 199 degrees, Fahrenheit, at the 10,000-foot altitude, where the tests were made. The times in which the water at different degrees froze in the cylinders were 199 degrees, 54 minutes; 86 degrees, 42 minutes; 68 degrees, 39 minutes; 50 degrees, 37 minutes. When the pie tins were used, a different set of results was obtained. The freezing times were 199 degrees, 31 minutes; 86 degrees, 33 minutes; 68 degrees, 31 minutes; 50 degrees, 29 minutes.

It is apparent from these figures that the shape of the vessel has a great effect on the freezing time. The boiling water took 54 minutes to freeze when it was placed in a cylinder, but only 31 minutes when placed in a pie tin. When the pie tin was used there was little difference in the freezing time whether the water was at the boiling point or 149 degrees cooler (31 and 29 minutes respectively).

The trouble with most experiments is that they are not made under carefully controlled conditions. Freshly boiled water is in a different state from unboiled water. Heating drives dissolved gases out of water. As water cools it will reabsorb gases. Boiling will precipitate certain dissolved solids. All of these changes make a difference in the rate at which water will absorb heat or give it up.

In scientific tests these factors must be controlled, as well as the air pressure at which the tests are made. The temperature to which the water is exposed must be kept constant, and the specific heat of the vessel in which the water is contained must be considered. When these conditions are observed and the only difference between two samples of water is their temperature, then the cold water will freeze faster than the hot.—By John J. O'Neill in the New York Herald Tribune.

Civilian Workers Trained To Meet Any Wartime Emergency

Through the close collaboration of provincial governments with the department of pensions and national health, in Ottawa, civilian defence corps in the seaboard provinces of Canada have reached a high degree of organization to meet any wartime emergency arising from enemy raids, sabotage, fire or an explosion in vital ports.

Halifax has a trained corps of 400 civilian workers and 200 air raid wardens, trained by the St. John Ambulance Association.

Similar organizations exist in Sydney, Saint John, Quebec, Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert.

Road Maps

Inventor Has Solved The Difficulties Encountered By Motorists

"Life would be stationary and perhaps dull without the inventors, particularly those men who conceive the little gadgets and edge human progress an inch or two farther along the way.

There is the matter of road maps; they have caused a lot of irritation in their time. Neatly folded, they look innocent enough, but open one up when driving, or have the second person sitting in the front seat do so, and immediately it behaves like a piano accordion that has got out of hand or a horizontal jack-in-the-box that just will not be squelched.

But a man with an inventive turn of mind has done something about this question of "map trouble." He has devised a simple case with two rollers. The map is inserted like a roll of camera film, and a small transparent window permits of easy reading. No more of that struggling in the wind, like a deep waterman off the Horn with a mainsail that refuses to come home to the yard. The map can be read and its routes traced.

Canadians Urged To Purchase Certificates To Assist War Effort

Ottawa.—A call went out from the federal government to Canadians of all means to put their resources behind the Dominion's war effort by investing in war savings certificates or, if their means were insufficient for that, to buy war savings stamps.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, finance minister, and Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe delivered the plea to the Canadian people in addresses broadcast over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Both the savings stamps and the certificates are on sale, the certificates in denominations of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100, and the stamps, or "silver bullets," at 25 cents.

They will be sold at four-fifths their face value and become due at the end of 7½ years.

"Wherever you go and wherever you do invest your savings in these stamps or certificates," said Col. Ralston. "Whether you count your savings in dollars or in quarters, dimes or nickels, you can help."

"But do it regularly. You will help your country through the stormy days of war and you will have something put away for the rainy days that may follow."

The German successes, said the finance minister, had placed new responsibilities on everybody, and on Canada they had imposed the duty of rearranging and speeding plans.

"It takes money, and a lot of it, to carry out this, the biggest job Canada has ever undertaken. . . the job of keeping the world and Canada a place worth living in," said the finance minister.

"I know the Canadian people will not grudge that money. It is necessary to save the most precious life in the world . . . the life of liberty." The finance minister spoke in English and the justice minister delivered the message to the Canadian people in French.

"I consider it one of the imperative duties of the present to make a pressing appeal to patriotism, to the generosity and to the spirit of sacrifice of our people to ensure the success of this movement destined to supply to the nation part of the resources required to support its war effort," said Mr. Lapointe.

Mr. Lapointe made reference to plans, already announced, to increase Canada's participation in the war, and said: "The Canadian industries will probably be asked in the near future to work day and night to increase their production."

He intimated also an expectation that lean times might come to the nation after the war, and suggested investment in war savings certificates and stamps would form a valuable post-war reserve for working men.

"The labor class must take advantage of their present income to build up, voluntarily, a reserve of purchasing power which will be useful in the days when the industrial activity decreases," said Mr. Lapointe.

The government, he said, had fixed a limit of $500 par value for the war savings certificates, which may be bought by any one person in any one year.

Those buying war savings stamps may accumulate them to the number of 16 and then turn them in for a $5 certificate which, on application, may be redeemed after six months. These certificates will be sold by all banks, post offices, trust companies, stock brokers, bond dealers and insurance companies. The war savings stamps, in addition to these outlets, will be on sale in nation-wide chain stores.

A national advisory panel, representative of many phases of Canadian endeavor, has been set up by the government to assist in the sale of war savings certificates and war savings stamps.

High Morale Of People Of Britain In Face Of Crisis

London.—Britain's hopes of stemming the German march to the sea and the vital channel ports rose with reports of new air force successes and the slowing down of the intensive German mechanized drive.

The nation was cheered by these developments: The French recapture of Arras. A widespread attack on targets in the industrial Rhineland area by Royal Air Force bombers.

The lessening force of the German thrust over soggy fields in Northern France.

The arrival of a new contingent of Canadians in England. The high morale of the R.A.F. was indicated in an air ministry announcement that one British pilot had attacked 20 German bombers, damaged two and escaped.

The Allied forces in Flanders and Northern France are fighting desperately to keep the Germans from winning their way to the channel.

The British people snapped out of the shock occasioned by "black Tuesday's" news that Amiens and Arras had fallen in northwestern France and declared through the press and public leaders that they were ready to take worse shocks if necessary and that their faith was unshaken.

The military commentator of The Daily Herald in discussing the chances of success of a German invasion of the British Isles remarked: "There have been continental conquerors in the past but in some strange indefinable way their magic touch has seemed to cease at the seashore."

The British expressed confidence that General Maxime Weygand, new supreme commander of the Allied land forces, could be counted upon to take advantage of the first opportunity to deal a blow at the Germans' elongated left flank.

The German successes, however, chanced away any remaining traces of apathy in this island, which once found much comfort in its channel defences. Both employers and labor expressed themselves as ready to accept any sacrifices demanded by the government.

The Daily Express, newspaper of Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production, declared: "The tenacity of our race will be our salvation. For if we can hold on and hold out for the next few weeks and months, ours is the assurance of final victory."

Newspapers also pointed to supplies from the United States as a valuable asset for the Allies.

The News Chronicle commented: "The great nation of the United States is awakening from its isolation and is helping in ever-increasing strength will soon be on its way across the ocean."

The most encouraging prospect is "perhaps to be found," The Times said, "in the fact that a considerable number of French troops appear to be still holding out, though the enemy have dashed past them, leaving his supporting infantry to carry out the process of mopping up."

"You are not beaten until you admit you are beaten." It was largely because he succeeded in instilling this doctrine that Foch weathered the storms of early 1918. The French army has since wandered after some strange materialistic gods, but the return of the marshal's tried and trusted disciple, General Weygand, may help revive the old spirit of optimism, self-help and trust in the initiatives of subordinates."

The military expert of The Daily Express wrote: "Great masses of the Allies' divisions have not yet had a chance to fight. They are efficient and in fine fettle, and their morale is good. We may be on the eve of a second Marne. Our eyes are on that alert and brilliant generalissimo, Weygand. He it is who has to make the big decision and select that ripe moment for his counterstroke."

Everywhere you go there are expressions of confidence in the Churchill government but the man in the street continually observes that that "should have been done months ago."

Form Home Guard

Force Of Ex-Service Men Will Be Established Immediately

Ottawa.—A force of ex-service men to be known as "The Veterans' Home Guard" for the protection of military property and "any other purpose that may be found necessary," will be established immediately, Defence Minister Norman Rogers told the House of Commons.

Mr. Rogers said the veterans' force would be uniformed and armed as a military force and would be under command of officers who are veterans of the first Great War.

In the initial stages the force will consist of 12 companies of 250 each, located in each of the military districts and to be organized by the district officer commanding.

The government believed this force, totalling 3,000 men, would be adequate for the needs now envisioned but that it would be enlarged if necessary.

Pre-arranged counter-moves against possible fifth column activities ensure Canada against espionage, subversive movements and sabotage, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, justice minister, assured the country in a statement he read the House of Commons.

When war broke out, said Mr. Lapointe, the government acted upon recommendations already prepared by a government committee appointed to study what should be done in regard to persons of enemy nationality.

Moreover, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with a uniform strength of 2,450 and still expanding, had been "watching closely the activities of foreign-controlled organizations in Canada."

Must Surrender Weapons

British Home Office Has Issued Order To All Aliens

London.—The home office has issued an order "prohibiting aliens from possessing firearms, ammunition or explosives without a special permit from police." Only air rifles and air pistols are excepted.

The order applies to aliens of all nationalities in the United Kingdom. They must surrender such possessions to the police immediately.

The Daily Herald said German servant girls who once worked in Great Britain are being forced by the Germans to become "suicide squad" parachutists for use in any projected invasion attempt, as guides for parachute squad planes. "Secret service men," the Daily Herald said, "have been making vital discoveries about the activities of fifth columnists in this country."

Enemy Aliens In Scotland

Ministry Of Home Security Interns Teachers And Some Pupils

Edinburgh, Scotland.—The internment of five masters, one "guest" teacher, and 11 pupils of Gordonstoun school near here was disclosed as part of the roundup of enemy aliens by the ministry of home security.

The school was founded seven years ago by Dr. Kurt Hahn, a Rhodes scholar who was joint founder of the Salem German "public school" on the shores of Lake Constance, Germany. Hahn, said to be a British citizen, was not interned.

MINISTER OF AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION

Lord Beaverbrook, a Canadian by birth, is known as a man of dynamic energy and organizing ability. His principal newspaper, the Daily Express, has the largest circulation in the United Kingdom.

Combat The Menace

Allies Now Fighting With Their Backs To The Wall

London.—Herbert Morrison, supply minister, called upon civilians to "work at war speed" to combat the menace that has the Allies fighting with their backs to the wall.

Mr. Morrison, leader of the London county council and one of the selected group of Labor leaders to enter Prime Minister Churchill's government, in a speech called for "more shells, more guns, more tanks."

The supply minister said the civil population must take up "a sterner way of life than we have been used to. War of the character we now are experiencing makes that inevitable."

"We are going to cut down our comfort, cut down our comfort, blot out every private and sectional aim, thinking only of arms for the men, arms for victory and for liberty."

Training Under Canvas

Second Infantry Brigade Of Canada's 1st Division Moved From Aldershot

Aldershot, England.—Armed and equipped as if for battle, the 2nd infantry brigade, 1st division, Canadian Active Service Force, moved from Aldershot for advanced training under canvas.

The men took over a tented city on rolling plains of rural England where the first brigade was housed for 10 days.

Headed by Brigadier G. R. Pearkies and his senior officers, columns of transports and armored vehicles sped through sleepy towns and villages. First came the Princess Pals, followed by the Edmonton regiment, with the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada bringing up the rear.

The 3rd brigade will go under canvas shortly.

Sugar Beet Crop

Lethbridge.—About 95 per cent of the nearly 24,000 acre sugar beet crop in southern Alberta is now seeded and in some areas workers have started thinning, it was reported.

British Ships Shell German Occupied French Channel Ports

London.—Powerful British warships steamed across the narrow Channel and were hurling heavy calibre shells into German-occupied French Channel ports.

At the same time wave after wave of British war planes pounded the so-called "gap" or spearhead of the German thrust through northwest France.

Tons of high explosives have been showered on Nazi columns which are attempting to rush to the aid of German forces already on the coast. On the land British, French and Belgian forces again battled to drive a pincers attack through the German wedge.

Allied Generalissimo Weygand has thrown fresh infantry divisions against the southern half of the German "bottle-neck" in north France.

These French troops are attacking the Germans in the region of St. Quentin in a violent effort to sever the Nazis' steel arm which stretches to the English channel, near Calais.

Simultaneously other attacks were launched on the Germans from the sea and from the air.

The Royal Air Force has engaged in "intense activity" on an increased scale. During Thursday and Friday, R.A.F. flyers have shot down or seriously damaged at least 60 enemy fighters. The R.A.F. also carried out large scale bombings on military objectives behind the German lines.

The British ministry said the Germans have lost at least 500 aircraft in Belgium and France during the past seven days and it was estimated that enemy air losses since the blitzkrieg started on May 10 have been upward of 1,500.

Germany may have a big air fleet, but according to French sources the Nazis have lost about 2,000 planes in the last two weeks.

And French officials, while reporting that lightning Allied pursuit ships had accounted for half this number, said that the remainder had been lost because of mechanical defects—apparently due to hasty or poor workmanship.

The French say that German air attacks on the northern front in France appear to be slackening. In Flanders, however, the German Stuka-type dive bombers are still attacking Allied lines.

These swift Nazi planes were said to be striking at Allied positions in groups of 20 or 30.

Speech Well Received

House Applauded First Effort Of Only Woman Member

Ottawa.—An attentive House of Commons heard Mrs. D. W. Nielsen (Unity, North Battleford), only woman member of the chamber, make her first speech in parliament and applauded her roundly.

Mrs. Nielsen prepared her speech well and was given a fine hearing. Most of the members leaning forward and listening intently to her clear-cut sentences and well-chosen phrases.

Mrs. Nielsen wore a black, tailored dress during her appearance in the house.

Organization Is Perfect

London.—Food distribution in Great Britain is so organized that the most intensive air raids on any part of the United Kingdom will not cut out any part of the population from supplies. Food Minister Lord Woolton announced, the capture of Belgium and the Netherlands by Germany will have no serious repercussions on British food supply, he said.

British Government Given Power Over Life And Property

Prime Minister Churchill wielded more power than any other British statesman in history as the nation entrusted to him all its life, wealth and property to be thrown into the fight against Hitler's advancing columns.

It took 165 minutes to turn this country into a virtual dictatorship. Parliament went into high gear to pass legislation clothing the government with complete and absolute power over all persons and everything they own.

Mr. Churchill flew to Paris to consult with Premier Reynaud and General Weygand, Allied commander-in-chief. His return seemed to synchronize with the more optimistic feeling over the military situation in France and Flanders.

There was no disposition to hide its dreary blackness, but people generally took the view that when two dynamic personalities such as General Weygand and Prime Minister Churchill went into action together some bold counter-stroke was bound to emerge.

For the first time in many dark days, the Allied position in France showed slight improvement. Swift counter blows by the British and French on the land and in the air against German motorized columns in the region of the Somme river near Abbeville removed an immediate threat of the British army being cornered in the narrow coastal plain by completion of a Nazi open road to the sea.

The biggest news of all, the most heartening and the most significant, lay in the fact that it now was possible, through the recapture of Arras and Abbeville by the French, to re-establish contact between the British, Belgian and French armies in the coastal area. If Weygand decides on a combined drive from the north and south he has his forces in position to do so.

Meanwhile the British government went ahead perfecting its plans to meet the greatest menace ever aimed at this country. It rushed through the House of Commons legislation providing the death penalty for treachery in wartime. It was generally agreed the legislation gave the government power to inflict the death penalty upon parachute saboteurs who land unarmed and in civilian dress.

Proud of the democratic machinery which could give the prime minister power as vast as that of Hitler and yet retain the right to take it back, parliament rushed into law the far-reaching act enabling the government to conscript all labor and property.

The House of Commons pushed the bill through three readings within two hours and without a vote. The house of lords quickly followed suit and royal assent was given. The whole job was done in two hours, 45 minutes, completing the transition from democracy to virtual—but temporary—dictatorship, begun last August when parliament empowered the King to issue decrees with the effect of law.

Orders in council prepared even before the parliament process was underway gave immediate effect to laws setting up controls under ministers covering labor, banking, agriculture, transport, mining, war industries and export trade.

War material and export industries will be given absolute priority and labor will be drafted as required in the more essential industries.

Labor will be transferred compulsorily not only to war factories but also to the land and coal mines as required. Control over agriculture will extend to manufacturing implements, the crops to be grown and their sale and distribution.

Supply Minister Herbert Morrison ordered all ordnance factories to work full time, seven days a week, until further notice. Most factories now are working two 12-hour shifts.

The cotton controller, Sir Percy Ashley, asked cotton mills to work 7½ hours a week overtime for the next four weeks.

The ministry of aircraft production announced an emergency committee had been formed to deal with the "immediate position of alloy steel required for the aircraft and air engine industry" in the new speed-up drive.

Under the sweeping enabling act, commons was told, the minister of labor "will be able to prescribe terms of remuneration, hours of labor, and conditions of service," munitions will be controlled immediately, and the excess profits tax is set at the rate of 100 per cent.

BREAD helps to keep Canadians healthy

CANADA'S HEALTH RECORD is high among the nations of the world. And bread, more than any other single item on the Dominion's diet, has helped to achieve this.

Bread is not only a valuable source of carbohydrates. Made with milk, as it usually is today, bread is also an important source of protein, equal to meat in its power to build and repair muscular energy.

Bread should and does supply one-quarter of the food energy of Canadians. Eat several slices every day and keep fit!

Miners Wages Regulated by Cost of Living

Re: Proposal that the Government should participate in a plan to supplement wages in the Coal Mining Industry in District 18, by a Cost of Living Bonus.

The proposals which have been discussed by the undersigned and tentatively agreed upon may be summarized as follows:

- That bonuses should be paid only if the increase in the cost of living since the date of the previous change has reached five per cent or more.
- That the first revision shall be as at March 31st, 1940, and shall be based upon a comparison between the cost of living as at March 31st, 1938. The second revision shall be made as of September 1st, 1940, and subsequent revision dates shall be at intervals of four months as of the first days of January, May and September in each year.
- That the said bonuses shall be revised downward should the cost of living budget show such a decrease as of any revision date on the same basis as applies to increases under (a) above, provided however, that in no instance shall such a downward revision affect the basic contractual wage rate.
- It is contemplated that a proportion of the increases in the cost of living will be attributable, from time to time, to increased taxation, and in view of the difficulty of determining such proportions accurately the undersigned will agree to abide by the determination of such proportions by competent Government authority, and the amount so determined shall be deducted from the bonus to be paid.

It is the opinion of the undersigned that it is essential that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of determining as at the dates above specified, the cost of living within the territory comprised in District 18, U.M.W. of A.; such Committee to be composed of three members of whom one shall be nominated by District 18, U.M.W. of A., one by the Operators of the coal mines in the said territory and the third by the Dominion Government; such Committee to determine a fair cost of living budget for said territory, excluding, however, Rent, Fuel, Light and Water, and also to determine in specific amounts the amount of the increase or decrease as at the revision dates above specified in the cost of said budget, excluding, however, from such increases or decreases the amount thereof attributable to taxation determined in the manner above specified.

COURT CLEARS DOMINION TEXTILE IN TAXATION CASE

Ottawa. — Holding that Dominion Textile Company made no incorrect or false income tax returns, concealed no relevant facts and fully paid the taxes assessed upon it, Mr. Justice A. K. Maclean of the Exchequer Court of Canada disposed of the allegations made in 1937 by Mr. J. C. McRuer, counsel for the Royal Commission inquiring into the textile industry, to the effect that full disclosures of income had not been made. The court ruled that the requirements of the law had been completely met by the company.

Beautiful Columbia Icefield Highway New Thrill for Visitors to Rockies

The newly completed Columbia Icefield highway, leading northward from Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies, will provide unique motoring thrills when it is officially opened for traffic in July. The new road, which cuts through one of the most beautiful sections of the mountain playground, furnishes direct access to the great Columbia Icefield, 150 square miles in extent, whose melting ice is the source of rivers which eventually find their way to three oceans, the Pacific, the Arctic and the Atlantic via Hudson Bay.

The highway runs through the very heart of the great mountain chain. It follows the valleys of a succession of wild, towering rivers; skirts impressive, age-old glaciers; runs along the shores of tumbling streams and jade-green lakes; passes roaring cataracts and rapids.

This mountain region is not barren or colorless. Instead, beneath great snow-capped peaks are great spruce and pine forests, glittering glaciers, translucent bodies of water, peaks looking for all the world as though huge paint pots had been spilled down their cliffs and terraces. Bears, elk, moose and other big game can be seen along the roadside and there is good fishing in the waters of the district.

This new highway promises to be an important factor in attract-

Pucksters Win Baseball Opener

Trounced Michel 6-1 in Easy
Victory; Sanderson Paces Locals

Coleman Pucksters started in this season where they left off last and blasted Michel Buffaloes from the ball field on Sunday afternoon to take an easy 6-1 decision in the first game of the C.N.P. baseball league.

Handcuffed by the fine flinging of Coleman's two ace pitchers, Seaman and Marconi, Michel never threatened, scoring their lone tally in the second inning. Sanderson sent Pucksters away to a flying start with a run in the first inning and came through with a timely single in the second to bring home two runs. In the sixth inning Seaman retired in favor of Marconi who continued to hold the visitors from scoring. Pucksters put the game on ice in the eighth inning with a three run barrage.

Pucksters played errorless ball while Michel committed five errors.

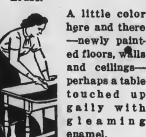

A fair sized crowd was on hand but it is thought that due to a last minute change in the schedule, which brought Michel to Coleman instead of Coleman travelling to Michel as originally planned, caused many to miss the game.

Fly The Flag

On May 24, a national holiday known as Victoria Day and Empire Day, whichever you choose to term it, very few Union Jacks or Canadian Ensigns were seen on buildings in Coleman. In the business part of the town the following had flags: Canadian Legion, Grand Union hotel, S. Janostak, Coleman Cafe, Sentinel Motors, Coleman high school, Coleman Journal, Empire hotel, West Coleman school, Town Hall.

There may have been others which the roving reporter did not see. Many houses displayed flags, giving a patriotic holiday atmosphere to the day.

STILL TRYING TO FIND A SEAT

There are persistent reports that, should the charter for a provincial bank for Alberta be granted by parliament, Mr. Solon E. Low, defeated provincial treasurer, who is still holding his job despite his defeat at the polls, will be given the post of general manager of the new bank. Mr. Low, himself, has denied this report.

There have been various rumors regarding Mr. Solon Low's future. Several times reports have circulated that some seat was to be opened up for him, but in each case the report has proved to be false. The truth seems to be that the government is putting out feelers in several directions trying to find some member who will be the sacrifice for the cautious minister. But so far no member has displayed willingness to be the substitutionary sacrificial offering, and the minister still goes wandering in the wilderness.

ALMOST everybody in Magog, Quebec, eats bread made from Western wheat flour. They also eat a good deal of Western meats, poultry, butter and other necessities.

Magog is able to be a steady customer of the three Prairie Provinces because Dominion Textile Company pays into this town about $73,000.00 in wages every fortnight. (Employee earnings per hour have increased 22.7% from 1929 to 1940, although sales prices have declined 16.2%.)

As in other communities of Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes, the main source of income for Magog people is textile wages. Textiles provide the second largest sum of wages paid by any industry in the whole Dominion. Textile wages help the East to be a good customer of the West.

People rely upon
THEIR BANKS

LONG past is the day when a hole in the ground was regarded as the best place in which to keep savings. Modern banking, evolved by man as a convenience to serve his developing needs, now provides the solution. As a depository for his money today the Canadian relies upon his bank. From the days of the old-world goldsmiths of centuries ago, to banks, bank notes and deposit accounts which meet so efficiently the greater business and human needs of today, is a far cry indeed. Canada's chartered banks, with their wide distribution of branches, throughout the Dominion, now provide deposit and other banking services in line with up-to-date requirements and in keeping with Canada's position as an important factor in world trade.

[In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, all their services to depositors, farmers, manufacturers, exporters—facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis for enduring prosperity.]

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A LITTLE more flag waving wouldn't do any harm, particularly when the Empire is at war. The Flag of Empire stands as a symbol of freedom and democracy, and more pride should be taken in it. Last Friday, an important national holiday in Canada, very few flags were seen on public buildings or business places. Display of the flag is right on certain occasions and is something younger people particularly take note of. Some schools have a ceremony each morning of raising the flag, similar to that performed by Boy Scouts when in camp. Patriotic sentiment should be inculcated in the young mind, for it is love of country that makes it great. Canadians twit the Americans for waving the Stars and Stripes. Possibly we should chastise ourselves for our lack of display of the national flag, with all its meaning.

NOT so very long ago when a young man decided to go to a dance, he took a young lady with him. If he couldn't, in most cases he stayed away, not caring to be so ungallant as not to take a partner. Nowadays it is different. Young men buy a single ticket, and figure a dance is just a "catch-as-catch-can" game as far as securing a dancing partner is concerned. The girls, finding that young men are not possessed of sufficient gallantry to invite them, and still wishing to enjoy some of the gaiety which these meetings provide, pay their own way, and when supper time comes they buy their own lunch. It appears to people of an earlier generation a very callous and uncultured proceeding, for whereas grace and politeness were always considered the first essentials of dance technique, nowadays it seems that all you have to do is to buy a "Dick Smith" ticket, grab your partner and swing'er around, and after the dance is over slide off home the same way you came—just yourself! It may not be the same everywhere, but that's our observation of public dances in this area, and it appears to be a very crude way of spending a social evening. Some may be so uncultured in matters of this kind that they think everything's as they term it—"okey doke!" Conditions change; yes, indeed!

THE Claresholm Local Press very appropriately makes the following comment which will be endorsed by Canadian people:

"There is a wave of public opinion fanning across Canada demanding stern efforts against 'fifth column' or inside deteriorating forces and sabotage. This was not considered a serious possibility here till the recent invasion of the small countries. This is war and no reasonable protectives should be overlooked. In the light of current happenings this week, we are of the opinion that all firearms should be taken into custody for the duration of the war, barring none, whether owned by enemy aliens, citizens of alien origin or straight Canadians. There never was justification for any man owning such an arsenal as this man Hanson. Without guns he would have been without danger even in a fit of temper."

This man Hanson, with a record of a previous killing against him, shot his own son to the point of death, killed a gallant policeman, then took his own life.

IN reading the resolutions endorsed by the Canadian Legion, it is noticed that the advertising of meetings in other than the English language should not be permitted during the war. In mining towns particularly in Alberta one sees many foreign language notices, and while no one would impose irksome restrictions on the liberties of the people, yet this is a recommendation that well might be enforced. Those who come from other lands should be ready to use the language of the country to which they emigrate, in advertising their meetings or gatherings.

ASSOCIATED Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia at the 40th annual meeting held at Fernie on Monday passed important resolutions pledging support to the Government, which took precedence over all other resolutions of a local nature. The keynote of the meeting was determination to bend every effort towards the prosecution of the war. The Associated Boards represent the large territories of East and West Kootenay, and often the organization is styled the parliament of the interior of British Columbia. Men prominent in every line of business and industry take a very active and interested part in its deliberations, and its recommendations are headed by the provincial government at Victoria. Such organizations do much to awaken and maintain local pride and interest, and the B.C. Boards of Trade with 40 years record have accomplished many things for the benefit of the districts they serve.

COLEMAN people can help in the nation's war effort by purchasing war savings certificates. On the first day of the sale a substantial amount was purchased, and every wage-earner can help. Not only in lending your savings to the government are you helping to finance the war, but you also help to provide something which will come back to you after the war. Moreover, the more of our own money we loan the less will have to be paid in taxes. Every "two-bit" piece will buy a stamp, and sixteen stamps will buy a five-dollar war savings certificate. Even the children can use their savings. Parents and school teachers might well urge the young people to purchase stamps.

EFFORTS are being made by various municipalities to have the 8 per cent tax on domestic electricity bills based on the kilowatt hours instead of on the amount of the statement. Coleman council took no action on a letter from Red Deer council on the matter. Yet it is the fairest way in which to levy the tax, and it is reported the Dominion government is considering revising the measure in order to conform with the suggestions made. For instance, in a city where power is cheap, a householder using 100 kilowatts at 3c would pay a tax of 24c. In Coleman, using 100 kilowatts at 6c, the tax would be 48c. If the tax was based on actual kilowatts, it would be equal throughout the Dominion, regardless of the price per kilowatt.

Thousands Say "Goodbye and Good Luck" to Lethbridge Fighting Men

LETHBRIDGE bid good-bye on Saturday to the soldiers who had been in training there for several months. Now that Canada's war effort is to be speeded up, the realities of war are brought more forcibly to everyone. Relatives of those who have volunteered are seen in the above picture bidding them farewell as they leave for Camp Shilo in Manitoba, whence it is likely they will proceed overseas. The top picture shows the train about to leave, while beneath are seen the people just after the train left. Pictures by courtesy of The Lethbridge Herald.

Red Cross Supplies Urgently Needed

Everyone Can Help in Some Way to Provide Comforts for Refugees

Alberta Division has received an urgent wire from national headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society, stating that surgical dressings, bandages, bedgowns, towels, pyjamas, sheets, pillow cases, and refugee clothing are urgently needed.

All groups are asked to send to divisional headquarters every completed garment they have at once, as at present we are shipping daily.

As there are a great number of refugees flocking into France, the French Red Cross Society has tremendous need for blankets. There are only a comparatively small number of blankets purchasable in Canada. They propose making a national appeal for receiving by each branch throughout Canada of good blankets for overseas use.

Donations of new blankets will be very acceptable, but if branches receive second-hand blankets, they must be washed and clean before shipping to divisional headquarters.

Will branches please make every effort to collect as many blankets as possible in their respective districts and forward same to divisional headquarters immediately for shipment overseas.

The Caller
Mr. Harlow considered this frowningly.
"That means nothing. He gives no trouble."
"No," she said shortly. "I get worried," she went on, "but he's quiet. Who is Mr. Carlton?"
Harlow drew a quick breath.
"Has he been here?"
She nodded.

"Yes—this afternoon. He asked me if I was Miss Mercer's old maid—she must have died soon after he was born."

"He's older than that—well?"
"I thought it was queer, but he said he'd been asked to trace Mr. Saul Marling."

"By whom?"
She confessed her ignorance with a look.

"I don't know; but it was a proper inquiry. He showed me the papers. They were from Eastbourne. I told him Marling was dead. Where?" he said. "In South America," I told him."

"Pernambuco," emphasized Mr. Harlow. "In the plague epidemic. Humph! Clever * * * and unscrupulous. Thank you."

"By whom?" she asked again. "You know everything about the burglary—I suppose that is what you mean."
"That is what I mean," said Jim. "It is very evident that you know nothing about policemen. You imagine, I suppose, that Scotland Yard says, 'Hallo, there's been a burglary in Victoria. How interesting! No body knows anything about it, so we'll let the matter drop.' You're wrong!"

"I'm much too hungry to talk."
"So I guessed," he said. "There is an unpretentious restaurant at King's Cross, where the sole au bonne femme is worthy only of the pure of heart."

"Very well," she said a little ungraciously. "Is that your car? How funny!"

To a Secluded Corner

"There's nothing funny about my car," he said with dignity, "and it is not my car. I borrowed it."

There was a clear night of stars and there was a touch of frost in the air, and although she would not have admitted as much for untold wealth, she enjoyed the short run that brought them to the side entrance of a large restaurant filled with people in varying stages of gastronomic enjoyment.

"I have booked a table," he said, piloting her through an avenue of working jaws to a secluded corner of the annex.

The snugness of the place was very satisfying. The pink table lamps had a soothing effect and she could examine him at her leisure. In truth, it had been one of the sources of irritation of that very unhappy day that she could not quite remember what he looked like. She knew that he was not repulsive and had a misty idea that he was rather good-looking, but that his nose was too short. It proved on inspection to be of a fashionable length. His eyes were blue and he was a little older than she had thought. Half her disapproval was based on the illusion of his youth.

"Now ask all your horrid questions," she said as she stripped her gloves.

"Number one," he began. "What did Harlow offer you when I so discreetly withdrew last night?"

"That has nothing to do with the burglary," she answered promptly. "But as it wasn't very important, I will tell you. He offered me a position."

"Where?" he asked quickly.

She shook her head.

"I don't know. We didn't get far as that. I told him I was perfectly happy with Mr. Stebbings who, by the way, used to be the lawyer of the Harlow family."

"Did you tell him that?"
He thrust his head forward eagerly.

"He'll be furious!"

"Why, no—he told me, though of course I knew," she said. "He knew, the moment I mentioned Stebbings' name."

"Was he impressed?" he asked after a pause, and she laughed.

"How ridiculous you are! Seriously, Mr. —" She paused insultingly.

"Carlton," he muttered; "half-brother to the hotel but no relation to the club."

"You worked that little jest last night," she said.

"And I shall work it every night you pretend to forget my name! Anyway, it is a confession of crass ignorance which no modern young woman can afford to make. I am one of the most famous men in London."

"I think I've heard you say that before," she said mendaciously. "Now tell me seriously, Mr. Carlton—"

"Got it!" he murmured.

"What do you want to know about the burglary?"

"Nothing," was the shameless reply. "As a matter of fact, I have saved you a great deal of trouble by supplying headquarters with all the details they need. Your uncle emerges tomorrow; do you know that?"

"To-morrow?" she said, with a little pang of apprehension.

"An Elk is going to meet him and take some of the sting out of his anger. I suppose he will be very angry?"

"He'll be furious," said the girl, troubled. And then, with a quick sigh, "I'll be awfully glad when he's emerged," as you call it. He allows me two pounds a week for my trouble, but I can well spare that."

"Arthur Ingle ought to be ashamed of himself to drag you into the light which shines so brightly upon the unjust," he said. "There is only one thing I want to know about him, and perhaps you will tell me that—was your uncle a great speculator?"

"I don't think so. But I really don't know. He never spoke to me about any investments. Is that what you mean?"

"That is just what I mean," said Jim.

He found it difficult to put the question without offense.

"You've had interviews with him, and I dare say you've discussed his business to some extent. I feel a brute asking you to betray his confidence, and I don't suppose for one minute you will. Did he ever talk about foreign gilt-edged investments—American railways, Argentine power stock?"

She was shaking her head before he finished the question.

"Never," she said. "I don't think he knows very much about that. I remember the first time I saw him at Dartmoor he told me he didn't believe in putting money in shares. Of course, I'm well aware he has money, but you know that, too, and I suppose it is stolen money that he's—"

"Cached—yes," said Jim.

He was very serious. It was the first time she had seen him in that mood, and she rather liked him for it.

"Only one more question. You don't know that he is in any way connected with a firm called Rata?"

And, when she confessed that she had never heard of such a firm, his seriousness was at an end.

"DERPO" BUG KILLER 85c. Ex-terminates bedbugs, moths, cockroaches, crickets, fleas, lice, ticks.

A Hunch

"And that's the whole of the questionnaire, back page and everything!"

He leaned back to allow the burly waiter to place the dish on the table.

"Sole au boned femme is good for the tired business girl. Will you have wine or lemon squash, or just the Lord's good water?"

After this he became his old flippancy. "He made no further allusion to her uncle, and if he talked a great deal about himself, it was interesting, for he talked shop, and Scotland Yard shop is the second most interesting in the world. He had been an officer attached to the intelligence department during the war, and was one of the three policemen in Scotland Yard who had not walked a beat. He lived at his club."

"I'd better give you the telephone number in case you ever want me."

He scribbled the address on the back of the menu sheet, and tore off the corner.

"Why should I want you?"

"I don't know. I've just got a feeling that you might. I'm a hunch merchant—do you know what a hunch merchant is?"

She could guess.

"Prenotions are my long suit, telepathy my sixth sense, and I've got a hunch * * * perhaps I'm wrong. I hope I am."

A World In Flames

The Moral Insanity Of The Leaders Of The Nazi Party

No matter what Hitler and his followers have done in the past, there have always been influential groups in the democracies to believe or hope that he would shrink before the last barbarities that, if nothing else, opinion in his own or neutral countries would stop him from letting loose a war on all civilization that would spare neither the monuments of the past, historic cities nor the homes and lives of peaceful civilians.

Many have found it impossible hitherto to believe the testimony regarding the complete recklessness and irresponsibility, the moral insanity of the Nazi leaders, that have come to us from Rauschning and other observers.

But now we know that they are true; and because of the awful instruments of power and destruction in the hands of these madmen, all the values of European civilization hang in the balance.—New York Times.

Always Looked After

Great Britain Never Forgets Responsibility To Her Dependancies
The Colonial Secretary has presented to the British Parliament a bill which shows the long vision of British statesmanship.

Each year for the next ten years, it is proposed, £5,000,000 will be spent on colonial development in economic and other fields. An additional £500,000 is to be spent annually on colonial health. Moreover £11,284,498 advanced in loans to British colonies in recent years is to be forgiven the debtors, turned into outright grants.

Wars come and go, but the Empire carries on, and the home government's responsibility for the colonies and dependancies never is forgotten. In time of war there must be preparation for peace—just as, since Hitler set out on his evil campaign of conquest, in time of peace there had to be preparation for war.—Ottawa Journal.

Material For Parachutes

Product From Silkworm Farm In England May Be Used

Ministry of supply experts are considering using 3,500,000 silkworms to produce silk for parachutes.

The silkworms are maintained at Lullingstone castle by Sir Robert and Lady Hart Dyke, whose "silk" farm has 250,000 mulberry trees and bushes.

The worms' annual product is sufficient to make 200 parachutes, and has passed the official test of 40 pounds to the square inch tensile strength.

Not Yet A Fact

Practical Possibilities Of Atomic Power Have Not Been Proved

No immediate likelihood of the isotope of uranium, U-235, speeding battleships across the Atlantic or revolutionizing the power industry, was seen by University of Toronto professors. Coal and gasoline, they believe, will be needed for a long time—and Niagara Falls as well.

"They haven't enough of it to sprig a mouse trap, let alone drive a battleship," commented L. Joselyn Rogers, professor of chemistry. "The practical application is not yet a fact and whether it can ever be of commercial value is far from proved."

"Apparently if large enough quantities of it could be secured, it would work," commented H. Grayson Smith, associated professor of physics. "But it exists in such minute quantities that its practical possibilities are a long way off."

An official at the head office of the Eldorado Gold Mines stated that 200 pounds of uranium would be required in order to get one pound of U-235. There was no truth whatever in the statement that uranium was widely found over the earth's surface. Great Bear Lake and the Belgian Congo had the only real deposits of it, he said.

Will Come In Handy

New Oil Deposits Have Been Discovered In Southern France

The "plutocratic" democracies, cause of so much Nazi anguish, manage to keep one jump ahead of Hitler's grabs. While the Reich is bowling over neutral set-ups in its quest for war supplies, France does some quiet drilling at home and strikes oil.

Paris reports reveal that new deposits discovered in Southern France may prove large enough to supply the nation's petroleum demands. France previously had an oil output of more than 500,000 barrels annually, so the latest discovery is not the sort of thing that will cheer petroleum-hungry Germany.

All this conveniently located oil will come in handy for the Allies soon, especially if trouble in the Mediterranean slows up British imports from the Near East.—Windsor Star.

Using War Trophies

Scrap metal from Uster is being shipped to Britain in increasing quantities for war use and the Belfast government was advised that trophies won by Irish troops in the last war will be considered acceptable contributions. Guns, tanks and other "souvenirs" will be forwarded.

This story appeared in the Reader's Digest: One sunny May day in Central Park, New York, a blind man was seen tapping for attention with his cane and carrying on his chest a sign: "Help the Blind." Byrnes Assails Lindbergh's 'Ostrich' Views

Washington, May 23.—A.P.—Senator James F. Byrnes (D), of South Carolina, charged Col. Charles A. Lindbergh last night with advocating an ostrich-like attitude for the American people in the present international situation.

The Senator's radio speech was regarded as an Administration reply to one by the aviator criticizing Roosevelt foreign policies.

Recalling that Colonel Lindbergh had accepted a decoration from the Nazi government, Senator Byrnes asked:

"When Mr. Lindbergh says 'No one wishes to attack us,' is he authorized to speak for Hitler or Goering?"

"Can 'the American people, in the light of recent history, accept the assurance of this young gentleman that if we do not ask for war, it will not come to us?'"

"Did China ask for war? Did Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, and Belgium ask for war? No, not one of them did. Yet today these nations have been wiped out and their men, women and children slaughtered."

Qualifications Questioned
"Mr. Lindbergh is no more qualified to offer advice on America's foreign policy," Senator Byrnes asserted, "than 'wrong way' Corrigan or any other aviator who may fly the Atlantic Ocean."

Turning to the aviator's statements that there had been "physical character of calamity and invasion" and that a "definite policy" of defense was needed, Senator Byrnes said:

"Even Mr. Lindbergh at the end of his hysterical protest against other people becoming hysterical about our national defense program, admitted that 'we need a greater air force, a greater Army and a greater Navy,' and nowhere indicated in what respect the President's program is defective."

President Roosevelt, he continued, not only had a "definite policy of defense already formulated," but had stated it "time and again."

"Why then does Mr. Lindbergh try to create the impression that the American people are being rushed hastily and impulsively into a national defense program?" the Senator asked.

He declared that England and France had been lulled into a false sense of security by men expressing the same international philosophy which Colonel Lindbergh voiced in his radio speech Sunday night.

"Fifth columns are already active in America," Senator Byrnes continued. "And those who consciously or unconsciously retard the efforts of this Government to provide for the defense of the American people are fifth column's most effective fellow travelers."

What 'Kind of America?'
"When Mr. Lindbergh states that 'regardless of which side wins this war, there is no reason, aside from our own actions, to prevent a continuation of peaceful relationships between America and the countries of Europe,'" Senator Byrnes said, "I shudder to think of the kind of America Mr. Lindbergh is willing to accept."

"Mr. Lindbergh seems not concerned with the flagrant violations of the rights of peaceful little nations, the cruel and bitter persecution of God-fearing men, women and children, because of their religion, race or political opinions; the burning of books, the bombing of helpless women and children fleeing in terror from their homes; the parachute spies and the torch troops. To Mr. Lindbergh all these seem to be only little trifling insignificant incidents to an age-old struggle for power."

"But to me these vile, barbaric deeds represent an attack against everything that we hold dear, an attack against international good faith, against religion, against learning, against political freedom, against civilization itself...."

"Mr. Lindbergh may tell us to 'stop this hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion,' but I thank God that America has at last been aroused to the dangers that beset her in a world menaced by brute force and strident ambition and is grimly determined to arm in self-defense."

SALVATION ARMY YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERVICE

Local News

From a report of the changes to be made in pastorates of the United Church, Rev. H. J. Bevan, who for four years has been at St. Paul's church, will move to Cayley, in the High River district, and his place here will be taken by Rev. J. E. Kirk, of Cayley. No definite information has been given yet concerning the transfer, but Mr. Bevan states that he and Mrs. Bevan expect to move at the end of June.

Frances Short and Dorothy Cooke have been given the highest award of the Girl Guides—the Gold Cord badge. There are very few of these awards made, as the qualifications are very exacting. There are other awards to be made to the local Girl Guides, of which announcement will be made next week by Miss Winnifred Dunlop, captain in charge.

Rev. and Mrs. R. Upton, of Bellevue, will make a move, and Rev. Roy Taylor, former M.L.A. for Pincher Creek, has applied for re-admission to the ministry.

NOTHING LIKE LEATHER FOR OUR ARMY'S BOOTS

The output of Canadian shoe factories has been stepped up to such an extent that now, every week, some 30,000 pairs of solid leather boots for the Army, the Navy and the Air Force are delivered to the department of national defense.

The exigencies of modern warfare have not eliminated marching. The Canadian soldier, in order to stand up under rigid drilling, while in training, and more strenuous footwork in the lines of battle, must be well shod. Each pair of these 30,000 manufactured every week for the armed forces has passed rigid tests. Whether he was a miner, a surveyor or a farmer, the recruit is issued with a pair of boots as strong as he ever wore.
